Dear Mr. Fielder:

At the recent NACBA Convention in New Orleans, we obtained a copy of your product, I-Got-Notices, and when we returned to our office, we installed it on one of our computers. It immediately became an irreplaceable part of our office.

When you demonstrated I-Got-Notices to us in New Orleans, you clearly showed that it had the potential to be helpful in our daily consumer bankruptcy practice. What you couldn't communicate at that time was that it is a virtual necessity for a post-October 2005 consumer-bankruptcy attorney. It not only automatically downloads everything from Pacer (so that we get it all for free on Pacer's first look free access program), but the calendaring part of I-Got-Notices is a bonus that goes far beyond the normal call of duty.

I-Got-Notices's automatic calendaring display allowed us to see (and point out to our local CM/ECF people) that the CM/ECF system had a mis-calendared hearing. We have the five-user license and it is wonderful it is available to everyone in our office whenever and wherever they need it.

The consumer bankruptcy law practice now involves so much minutia with such serious consequences for our clients for any mis-step, that a tool like I-Got-Notices helps recover a portion of the peace of mind that over twenty-five years of practice under the now-departed Bankruptcy Code let us have.

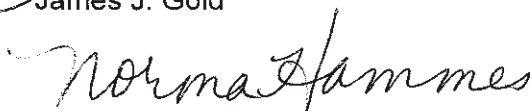

Words are not capable of expressing out gratitude to you and your staff for having the vision to create I-Got-Notices and the technical competence to produce it in such an easy-to-install and use package.

Thank you again for everything,

GOLD and HAMMES
